1. USER PRIVACY AND DATA PROTECTION GDPR 2018

User privacy and data protection are based on eu human rights

- JT Accountants have a duty of care to the people within our data base
- Data is a liability and should only be collected and processed when necessary with your consent
- We will never sell, rent or otherwise distribute or make public your personal information

2. VALID LEGISLATION

This website along with our computer system is designed to conform with the following national and international legislation with regards to data protection and user privacy:

- EU Data Protection Directive 1995 \(DPD\)
- EU General Data Protection Regulation 2018 \(GDPR\)
- ICO guide to GDPR

Our site's compliance with the above legislation, of which are rigorous in nature, means that this site is expected to be compliant with the data protection and user privacy legislation set out by many other countries and regions. If you any uncertainties whether this site conforms with your own country of residences' specific data protection and user privacy legislation please contact our data protection officer (see below) for clarification.

3. PRIVATE DATA THAT THIS WEBSITE COLLECTS AND WHY WE COLLECT IT

This website collects and uses personal information for the following reasons:

3.1 Site visitation tracking

Like most websites, this site uses Google Analytics (GA) to track user interaction. We use this data to determine the number of people using our site, to better understand how they find and use our web pages and to see their journey through the website.

While GA records information such as your geographical location, device, internet browser and operating system, none of this information personally identifies you to us. GA similarly registers your computer's IP address which could be used to personally identify you but Google do not permit us access to this. In addition, we consider Google to be a third-party data processor (see 6. below).

GA makes use of cookies, details of which can be found on Google's developer guides.

By disabling cookies on your internet browser will stop GA from tracking any part of your visit to pages within this website.

3.2 Our blog

In the event we add a blog page and should you choose to add a comment to any posts that we have published on our blog, the name and email address you enter with your comment will be saved to this website's database, along with your computer's IP address and the time and date that you submitted the comment. This information is only used to identify you as a contributor to the comment section of the respective blog post and is not passed on to any of the third-party data processors below. Only your name will be shown on the public-facing website.

Your comments and its associated personal data will remain on this site until we see fit to either to remove the comment or remove the blog post. Should you wish to have the comment and its associated personal data erased, please contact us using the email address that you commented with.

If you are under 16 years of age you MUST obtain parental consent before posting a comment on our blog.

Notably: You should avoid entering personally identifiable information to the actual comment field of any blog post comments that you submit on this website.

3.3 Contact forms and email links

Should you choose to contact us using the contact form on our contact us, noting that none of the data that you supply will be stored by this website or passed on any of the third-party data processors defined in section 6. Instead the data will be collated into an email provided by Microsoft 365 and sent to us over the Simple Mail Transfer Protocol \(SMTP\). Our own SMTP servers are protected by TLS (sometimes known as SSL) meaning that the email content is encrypted using SHA-2, 256-bit cryptography before being sent across the internet. The email content is then decrypted by our local computers and devices. However, not all mail servers are secured in such a way. Therefore, we would suggest that you always consider email as an insecure medium and not include personal, confidential or otherwise sensitive information within an email.

If you are under 16 years of age you MUST obtain parental consent before joining our email newsletter.

While your email address remains within the JT Accountant's database, you will not receive any newsletter-style emails from us.

4. HOW WE STORE YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION

As detailed in section 3.2 above, if you submit a comment to a blog post published on this website some personal information will be stored within this website's database.
